Theatrical Topics.

"The Man on the Box."

"The Man on the Box" will be the attraction at Music Hall on Nov. 26. This troupe appeared in Salem, Mass., on Nov. 15 and the Salem News of Nov. 16 said:

"The Man on the Box," a dramatization of Harold McGrath's immensely popular novel of the same name was present at the Empire theatre last evening with the following cast of characters:

Marlin Cassidy, Thomas F. Sullivan, Officer O'Brien, Wm. Ward, Charles Henderson, Walter S. Weeks, Judge Watts, Harold G. Collins, Mrs. Conway, Miss Evelyn Silver, Elizabeth Anisley.

Miss Louise Langdon, Miss Alice Perry, Col. Annesley, William Foote, Count Karloff, W. J. Nason, Col. Raleigh, Frank G. Miner, Wilmer Walter, Robert Worrell.

As a book, "The Man on the Box" made the reputation of its author and sold into the hundreds of thousands. As a play it is even more enjoyable than it was in book form, for many of the characters that seemed a trifle far fetched in the book take on a semblance of reality when presented in real flesh and blood.

While its story of the gentleman who hired out as a groom just to be near his lady love is a bit improbable and many of the situations verge on the farcical, still its hero is a decidedly engaging and likable character and its heroine a charming young woman. One is willing, for the time being at least, to accept the remarkable and most amusing situation the hero and heroine find themselves in as entirely plausible.

Wm. Walter made a fine impression last night in the role of Robert Worburton "The Man on the Box." So far as personality is concerned he is evidently fitted for the role, as he is a good looking chap with a fine stage presence and a gentlemanly manner, two things very necessary in the portrayal of this character. In the garb of the groom he is still a gentleman, in the garb of a butler he has still an air of distinction. If it were otherwise the role would lose much of its attractiveness.

Louise Langdon also pleased as the impulsive, self-willed and altogether charming woman who hires as a groom a young man whom she knows to be a gentleman, despite the fact that he has apparently insulted her just for the romance of the thing and incidentally to have a little fun with him. The varying moods of this volatile young woman were cleverly indicated and in a few melodramatic moments of the play Miss Langdon was sufficiently strong.

The other characters are for the most part of minor importance and all were well cared for last evening so that the performance as a whole was a decidedly enjoyable one.

STATE COLLEGE

The initial lecture in a course arranged by the faculty, with Prof. Richard Whoriskey in charge, was delivered on Friday night by President Lucius Tuttle of the Boston and Maine railroad in Thompson hall. Mr. Tuttle's address was mainly devoted to giving the students advice and suggestions from his own experience. He cited as elements in achieving success decision of character, power of observation and confidence in one's self. He emphasized the value of a knowledge of human nature for that knowledge enables one to control men. Patient plodding at the beginning is the surest road to success.

Money, he said, is not the root of all evil but rightly used the root of all good, for it renders education possible. Referring to the advent of millions of foreigners into the United States, he said that the future of the nation is uncertain, but maintained that if the people stand for what is right and best their children will live in a better country. President Tuttle came in his private car and left on Saturday morning for Boston.

Benjamin Franklin Proud of Manchester, a member of the junior class, has been elected captain of the varsity football team of New Hampshire college, for the season of 1910. The new captain has played on the eleven for three years and is one of the most popular men in college. He is 24 years old, is 5 feet, 10 inches tall and weighs 175 pounds. Captain Proud is an all-round athlete. In his freshman year he played a steady and consistent game at left halfback on the varsity football team, besides making his class numerals in the only three sports recognized by the athletic association, football, basketball and baseball, "Ben," as he is generally known, again made the football team in his sophomore year, starting the season at fullback and finishing it at center. At the latter position he was one of the best men that had ever played on a New Hampshire eleven, being aggressive on the offensive and fast on the defensive. He also made his three class teams. During this last season which ended in Durham with a hard earned victory over Rhode Island State college, Captain Proud was at center where he played a more conspicuous game than he did the year before. He was the mainstay of New Hampshire's line. The new captain is as brilliant socially as he is in athletics. Elected president of his class when he entered the college he has been reelected every year since then. He is a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity, also of the Casque and Casket, a junior-senior society. Captain Proud has the support of the entire college for the next football season, and indications point towards his development of a successful team to represent New Hampshire college on the gridiron.

Exeter Nov. 20.—The academy alumni, which are to take part in the Harvard-Yale football game today are Savage, Vaughan and Conney of the Yale eleven, while Yale's head coach is a graduate from Exeter with the class of 1905. There is not a single representative from the school on the Harvard eleven. Andover is represented by Hobbs, Daly, Murphy, Kilpatrick, Andrus and Hayes on the Yale eleven, and by Kay on the Harvard eleven.

A large delegation from here will attend the Yale-Harvard game at Cambridge today. Sentiment at the academy is about evenly divided, and many of the students are also to attend. Harvard alumni, and the Cambridge institution is the favorite. Many were disappointed in not receiving a ticket, and thus the delegation is lessened.

Temperatures here on Friday registered 19 degrees the lowest of the season, and ice was formed about the junctions of the Swamscott river. Craft continue to run but the date is getting late. The last schooner up was the Ada J. Campbell, which was towed back to Portsmouth this week. Most of the naphtha launches have been taken out for the winter.

Countertop dimes which have been reported to be in circulation hereabouts, are being watched for among local merchants.

A pleasing entertainment was given on Friday evening at the town hall, under the auspices of the senior class of Robinson seminary. It consisted of readings by Miss Maud Huntington, Benjamin of Boston, soprano solo by Evangeline Hiltz, also of Boston, and piano selections by Harold C. Jenkins of Exeter. The artists rendered an especially attractive program, and it delightfully entertained a large audience.

The girl was arrested at her home in Valley Falls after weeks of wandering with Eugene L. Miller, who she alleges, gave her the check.

The check in question was drawn on the First National bank and signed by Howard Wells and made payable to Annie E. Wells, his daughter.

Howard Wells is Surgeon Wells, U. S. N., who was attached to the naval hospital at the navy yard.

Dr. Wells on July 25 made out a check, or rather signed his name to a check, leaving the name and amount blank, and being called out, he left the check on his desk.

It is then alleged that Eugene L. Miller, who was a hospital steward at the yard, found the check and the Clark woman claims he brought it over to her. She was then stopping at the Clifton house on Water street.

Together they filled out the check for $275.00 and the next morning, the Clark woman presented herself at the bank. Previous to that telephone message was received at the bank, supposed to be from Dr. Wells, his daughter.

Rev. W. D. Gray, secretary of the Congregational Home Missionary society for Wyoming, delivered an address on his work at a union meeting of the two Congregational churches at the First church on Friday.

Rev. Felix Powell, the noted Italian preacher delivered a most interesting address at the Methodist church vestry on Friday evening. His subject was "From the Ditch to the Pulpit." Mr. Powell spoke largely from his own experiences. Mr. Powell is a classmate at the Drew Theological Seminary of the Rev. P. H. Huse, pastor of the church.

Many new volumes have been added to the public library recently, and among the numbers are some well known and popular works. They include fourteen volumes of fiction, three of juvenile, nine of history, travel and biography, six of literature, three of art, and three of sociology.

TOLEDO'S GRAVE OFFENSE

Commander of Zelaya's Forces Violated Pan-American Treaty When He Invaded Costa Rican Territory—Revolutionists Preparing For Final Blow—Enlistment of Government Troops Forced by Horrible Means

Washington, Nov. 20.—A significant development, inasmuch as it disclosed this government's unyielding determination not to interfere with the Nicaraguan revolutionists, was the reiterated announcement that the state department would not act to insure the safety of any American vessels which might be called up or seized by the insurrectionary war vessels now blockading the government forces at Greytown or elsewhere on the Guatemalan coast.

The announcement was made as a result of several inquiries by American shipping concern.

The deepest interest is apparent as to the conference between Assistant Secretary Wilson, Senator Calvo, minister from Costa Rica, and Dr. Herrera, the minister from Guatemala, yesterday afternoon.

It is believed that the instruction of the existing Pan-American treaty, signed here a little over two years ago, was the chief matter discussed.

The violation of the agreement was committed by General Toledo, in command of President Zelaya's forces, when he invaded Costa Rican territory in his advances on Greytown, where practically he is now besieged.

In the threatened trouble between Nicaragua and Venezuela only a short time ago, the United States stood ready to prevent, by force if necessary, the passage of the belligerents across the neutral territory of Honduras. This is pointed to by diplomats as indicative of the gravity of Toledo's offense against the Panamanian compact.

The revolutionists under General Chamorro are making preparations for the final and decisive struggle within the next three or four days.

But Astor's Yacht May Have Reached Some Port

New York, Nov. 20.—Every added hour of uncertainty deepens the anxiety felt for Colonel John Jacob Astor, his son Vincent, and Richard Peters, a cousin of Mrs. Astor, all of whom have been out of touch with the world for a fortnight, since the missing yacht Nourmahal was last spoken.

Shipping masters point out that if the Nourmahal was blown out of her course by the late West Indian hurricane, she might have great difficulty in making port again.

Hope for her safety rests on the assumption that she is now in port, but that, owing to the interruption of the cable service, it is impossible to get word of her arrival to America.

WAS A SOCIAL FAVORITE

Death of Dowager Duchess of Manchester, Who Was Consuelo Yznaga London, Nov. 20.—Consuelo, Dowager Duchess of Manchester, died this morning of heart failure following an attack of neuritis.

The duchess had been ill some time from neuritis, but recently complications developed and she failed rapidly. She died in her London residence.

The dowager duchess was famous as a beauty and was the daughter of Antonio Yznaga del Valle of Ravenna, La., and Cuba. Consuelo became a prominent figure in New York city's social life. Her wedding in Grace church in May, 1876, to Viscount Mandeville was a brilliant affair, and one of the first of the alliances of American girls with foreigners.

A son and twin daughters were the fruit of the union, and on the death of his father Consuelo's son became duke. He married Miss Helen Zimmerman of Cincinnati in 1890 and Consuelo became the dowager duchess. Her two daughters died in young womanhood.

For many years the dowager duchess was a great favorite in London and on the continent. King Edward and Queen Alexandra were her constant friends.

WANTS TO BE ALDERMAN

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 20.—For the first time in the history of Worcester there will be a woman on the official ballot for alderman for city election to be held in December. She is Mrs. Rose M. Fenner, prominent in society and Socialistic circles.

Mrs. Fenner was nominated for the position of alderman in ward 9 by the Socialists at a union meeting to oppose Alderman Coates of the same ward, who is out as a candidate for re-election on the Republican city ticket.

WAGE CUT IS DUE

Nine Percent Reduction May Be Made In Fall River Next Month

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 20.—The 30,000 operatives in the four score cotton mills of Fall River will face a reduction of nearly 9 percent in their wages on Dec. 13, unless the manufacturers decide to waive their right to make cut, which they will have under the so-called sliding scale agreement which has been in force for several years.

The existing situation is due to the great cost of cotton during the past six months and the failure of the finished product to advance correspondingly.

SNAKE INDIANS UNEASY

Inclination to Refuse to Recognize United States Government

Tishomingo, Okla., Nov. 20.—Representatives of the Snake Indian tribe, who are attending the Chickasaw legislature, are fighting hard to induce the Indians to refuse to recognize the United States government, and all treaties that the government has made with the Indians.

Telegrams from San Juan del Sur and the boundary of Costa Rica declare that President Zelaya is practising horrible means to force the enlisted men to fight and to obtain financial assistance.

According to information brought into Bluefields by deserters, the troops of Zelaya are suffering great hardships from lack of food and exposure. The Zelayan detachment of the attacking army was promised permission to loot Rama for two days if the attack was successful.

CUSTOMS MEN ARE OUSTED

Seventy-Three Have Been Dropped by Loeb

A RESULT OF EXPOSURES

Sensation Caused by Removal of Deputy Surveyor Vail, the Man "Higher Up" in the Weighing Division—All Suspected of Being Guilty of Connivance in Sugar Frauds, Which Were Known in 1898

New York, Nov. 20.—Collector of the Port Loeb announced the removal from the customs service of seventy-three employees and attaches of the weighing and other divisions of the customs service here. Among those dismissed are James F. Vail, formerly deputy surveyor of the weighing division; George E. Hedell, an inspector, formerly chief clerk of the weighing division; James P. Hyland and Joseph O. Carroll, ex-foremen of weighing districts.

Besides those enumerated, the removals include ten assistant weighers, three inspectors, formerly assistant weighers, one inspector, formerly an assistant ganger, and one assistant ganger. In addition, the collector states that since March 9 last, the day he took office, he has removed from the service for irregularities in the weighing department eighteen other officials, six of whom are now under investigation.

In other branches of the service he has removed for cause thirty-six officials, making the total number of removals from the service since March 9 seventy-three. In connection with the dropping of Vail, Loeb announces that the office of deputy collector, which Vail held, has been abolished. Of Vail's removal he says:

"The collector has no proof, nor have Special Assistant Attorneys General Stinson or Smith, of any corruption on his part, but he was in charge of the weighing division during the time that the extensive underweighing frauds were perpetrated and the fact that such conditions could exist in his department warrants his separation from the service on the grounds of negligence and inefficiency."

Collector Loeb, in making the announcements, added significantly: "The collector is continuing his investigations."

Vail's Dismissal Unexpected

Vail's dismissal caused a genuine sensation in customs circles, for he was the man "higher up" in the weighing division and any further disclosures must effect one of the heads of the four great branches of the custom house here if they are to go beyond the person of Vail. His immediate superior was on the one hand the collector who appointed him and the surveyor to whose office he was attached. In view of the repeated charges that in the past the customs frauds, particularly as concerning the sugar trust, have been winked at by individuals very high up in the service, those who are concerned in the investigation here are waiting with interest to learn what Vail may have to say as to the responsibility of his superiors for the conditions that existed when he was in charge of the weighing division.

Mr. Loeb did not decide upon the wholesale dismissal until he had thoroughly satisfied himself that the men to go had been guilty of connivance in the sugar frauds. For this reason it is not expected that the discharged men will insist upon any trial before the civil service board. Loeb regards it as likely that they will be satisfied to get out without having their offenses aired before the trial board. The men slated for slaughter hold places as weighers of sugar and as assistants in the handling of sugar at the two piers.

As to the possibility of criminal prosecutions of the men, it was said that Loeb was not satisfied that there was sufficient evidence in the majority of cases. He is reported to have given evidence in the cases of some twenty or so to United States District Attorney Wise, and it is said that indictments have been found in those instances, but the others Loeb is not inclined to send to the district attorney for prosecution, only to run the chance of having the men acquitted.

WORK IS STOPPED

Expert to Hunt For Dynamite Before Mill Can Be Built

Lawrence, Mass., Nov. 20.—Fearing 100 pounds of dynamite which is buried in the field where many hundred laborers are making ready to excavate for the new Pacific mill print works, work has been stopped and Patrick Murphy, an expert bandler of the explosive, has been hurriedly summoned from New York to locate the mine.

The dynamite was used by the Boston and Northern Street Railway company in their excavating work in the summer of 1898. Upon the approach of winter that year the explosive was buried in the field, which was then a small woods, across from the Boston and Northern car barns on Merrimack street.

The spot was marked, but since the trees and underbrush have been removed and mills built all around the locality the men who buried the explosive have lost their bearings.

Murphy came to this city from New York in response to a telegram. He took immediate steps to locate the mine, but must go carefully. He admits that the search is hazardous.

EXPLORERS ARE FORCED TO FLEE

But Five Bodies Are Recovered

From Mine at Cherry

Cherry, Ills., Nov. 20.—With the fire in the St. Paul mine greatly checked and five of the 300 corpses of men who were killed by last Saturday's fire recovered, it is hoped that much progress towards clearing the mine will be made today.

Charity has poured aid into the homes of suffering survivors, but this could not assuage anybody's chip off his shoulder and we are not laying a chip on our shoulder, but we are a great nation of eighty or ninety millions of people and we must, in order under the present conditions to maintain the prestige that is proportionate to our stand before the world, have a navy that is worth seeing and able to fight if it has to."

To make himself hear in speaking at Cape Henry the president stood on a chair. Next to him sat Andrew Carnegie.

"I am glad," said Mr. Taft, "to be here where, in spite of the views of my distinguished neighbor, Brother Carnegie, we ought to put a formidable fortress right here. Both Brother Carnegie and I are working toward the same end and we believe in peace, though I am not quite so near the millennium as he is. But we are working in the same direction and with the same principles and we don't differ so much."

PROBE WILL CONTINUE

Autopsy on Body of Baby Who Died in the Myrtle Home

Providence, Nov. 20.—Although an autopsy performed upon the body of Inez Johnson, a child who died at the Myrtle Home in East Providence last Tuesday, showed natural causes as the reason for death, the authorities will continue their investigations further. Since June 17 twenty-four babies died in the home.

Under orders from President Hull of the town council, Medical Examiner Allison performed the autopsy.

James Minick, agent of the society for organizing charity, has asked Attorney General Greenough to find out if there are legal means to close the home.

Bail, which was placed at $20,000, has not been furnished the defendant.

The case is one of those growing out of the Framingham note difficulties.

Norfolk, Nov. 20.—As one of the concluding features of the convention of the Atlantic Deep Waterways association, and to accept again the hospitality of the people of the Old Dominion, President Taft came to Norfolk, reviewed a military and naval parade, made two speeches in which he espoused his interest in a practical system of waterway improvement to be carried forward on a business-like basis and not merely as a means of distributing patronage; partook of an oyster roast under the shadows of the towering Cape Henry lighthouses, and attended a smoker in honor of a large corps of visiting newspaper men.

The Mayflower this morning got under way for Hampton, where the president will attend a meeting of the board of trustees of the Hampton Normal Institute, of which he is a member. ## ADULTERATED FLOUR

There seems to be no end to the adulterations of food. And what makes it seem strange is that a considerable portion of the adulterations are not for the purpose of increasing profits by the deliberate dishonesty, or substituting less expensive materials, but are under the more subtle guise of catering to appearances.

People have got an idea that flour ought to be white, therefore the milling firm with the whitest flour gets the most trade. Whereupon the millers go to bleaching the flours by the use of gases, and the United States agricultural department says that is an adulteration which not only adds an impurity but weakens the nutritive power of the flour itself. We will probably have to get used to a flour with a yellowish tinge.

Rice is sometimes coated with talc to make it look white instead of being the natural reddish tinge, but some people who know about it are particular to buy the reddish. We do not know, though such may be the case, that the agricultural department has ever taken any notice of this method of whitening rice.

Strawberry and raspberry jellies used to be made of apple, grass seed, chemical flavor and chemical color. Canned green peas and string beans used to have coloring matter added, and ketchup and canned meat were reddened, and nobody knows the end of those unless he has read the whole list of government report of which these are a few instances.

When we get used to the duller colors and the natural flavors after cooking, we will like it all the better.

A curious feature of the situation is that people today are sometimes showing fear of canned goods honestly packed in accordance with the pure food laws when they eagerly took up the adulterated products of a few years ago.

But adulterated flour goes pretty close to the main sustenance of our American branch of the human race.

TWO BRILLIANT MEN DEAD

The death of Richard Watson Gildor of the Century Magazine, followed within a few hours by the death of William M. Laffan, the editor and principal owner of the New York Sun, makes a loss to literary circles in this country that is great.

Both were brilliant and brawny writers and each had won for himself a place in the literary history of the world.

A Comment from Dover

The latest political news from the camp of those styling themselves reformers and progressive Republicans is that Sherman E. Burroughs of Manchester will be the candidate of that party for governor and that state senator Robert P. Bass of Teleboro will neither seek the nomination, nor sanction the use of his name in connection with the office. Several of the active leaders of the progressive Republicans were in conference in Manchester Monday, but strict secrecy with reference to the purpose of proceedings of the meeting is maintained. It is the assumption of the progressives that the next Republican candidate for governor should be a "middle of the road" man, as such a candidate would harmonize party differences, and discordant elements and they believe that Attorney Burroughs is the man of the hour.—Dover Democrat.

Is He the Man?

A Concord dispatch to the Boston Herald, reprinted in this paper, has some interesting and important information about New Hampshire politics. We wish that information was a little more definite and that several of the more active leaders of the progressive Republican party in conference here yesterday had allowed their names to be made public as well as the results of their deliberations.

But we are not disposed to question the correctness of the Herald's information that these leaders decided to appeal to Mr. Burroughs to accept the nomination for governor. And there is much said in favor of their decision. Sherman E. Burroughs is young, able, eloquent, of good record as a man, a lawyer, a citizen, and a public official. The question of the financial and professional sacrifice required of him by his acceptance of a nomination and election is not one that he would allow to overshadow his duty in the premises.

The one thing we believe he will weigh in his mind, and which he and others should weigh, carefully, is the possibility of his uniting the Republicans of New Hampshire under one banner for a straight march to an old time victory. The "regulars" and the "progressives" must get together and vote together in 1910. Further division along the lines of the recent past will be fatal to party success.

If Mr. Burroughs can bring about this reunion he is the man we are looking for as the next Republican gubernatorial candidate. If he cannot accomplish it he should not allow himself to be persuaded into a decision contrary to his own best interests and those of the party.

It seems to us that the gentlemen who are said to have reached an important decision in this city this week should allow the other Republicans in New Hampshire to know the basis for their belief that Mr. Burroughs is the man who can marshal the party once more in its unbroken front of years ago. It would have been well if they had invited to their conference some representatives of the other wing of the party.

The doctors gave me all kinds of medicine but I did not receive any real benefit until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Philbrick's Drug Store. ## A TIMELY TOPIC

BY

SIGURD C. NEILSEN,
In American IndustriesPunctuality in Daily Work.

ONE of the most important factors in bringing about and maintaining punctuality in the factory is, in my opinion, that the foreman of the department, and his assistants show by precedent the necessity of being in their respective places at the proper time. It is not to be expected in a large factory that people of various ages and conditions should always be on time, but by picking out those who are the most delinquent and inform them (personally) that they must abide by the rules, and discharge them if the call is truless, the result will work satisfactorily on the entire department.

What breeds laziness and absence from work is, first of all, lack of discipline, dark unsanitary shops, and too long working hours. Make the surroundings and conditions as good as possible under the factory rules so that the employee will go to their work cheerfully with prospects of earning a decent day's pay.

I have been practicing these rules to the best of my ability, as long as I have had charge of workmen, and while I was working at the bench, noticed that such rules applied to most human beings. It must be remembered that both employee and foreman are equally necessary to produce the goods. If the goods are produced in the best, cheapest and most harmonious way, the concern will be able to figure on a steady and reliable output of their product.

If the habit of losing time is allowed to grow, it will become a disease almost contagious, and should be treated as such.

Each brought home his full quota of game, among which were four good bucks. They left for Misericordia, Me., on Nov. 1 and arrived in camp on the 3d. Charles L. Grant, a Civil war veteran and 64 years of age, was the oldest member of the party and stood the test in good shape. He walked nearly 20 miles a day while in camp. Each one saw plenty of deer and partridges and one of the party saw a moose.

NEW CASTLE

Marriage of Mr. Hutchins and Miss Plummer

Knights of Pythias Took in One New Member

New Castle Nov. 20. The glorious weather of the past two weeks seemingly gave the hardy varieties of flowers a new lease of life, but the cold snap which blew its frigid breath over them Thursday has withered them into unsightly decay. The ever blooming petunias have closed their waxy cups. The geraniums (of which Charles Dickens was extremely fond) have withdrawn their sturdy hold and nodded their various tinted and incomparable bloom for the last time. And the ruddy marigolds, whose immunity to the heavy frosts have counted their gold and locked it in the big iron safe down below. Surely, the melancholy days have come, the saddest of the year. And we know in many ways we'll soon be nursing winter days. The most surprising thing to us is that some hurry rhyming near-poet has not got on the ground and sent some rhymes on snow around.

Mrs. Annie D. Howe who has been the guest of Mr. William Tarlton and family, has returned to her home in Bremen, Mass.

Miss Mercedes White has returned from a visit with relatives in Portland.

Mr. William Marvin is making repairs to his house on Main street Contractor Davidson's men performing the labor.

Miss Mae Meloon, who has been visiting relatives, has returned to her home in Lynn.

Mr. J. E. Plumb and family, who have been passing a few days at his cottage, have returned to Andover.

At the regular meeting of the Knights of Pythias Friday evening the degree of Knight was conferred upon Elmer Eaton.

Mr. Jetta Ernest has finished putting on pliazza to his attractive residence.

Mrs. Horace Gray, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Gray has returned to her home on Sagamore avenue, Portsmouth.

We are almost face to face with a national holiday, Thanksgiving. The name proclaims its nature and our president proclaims its necessity for the American people and sets the date for the fulfillment of its obligations.

Thanksgiving has been celebrated annually in New England with religious services and social festivities since the Plymouth colony inaugurated the custom in 1621.

The governor's proclamation is similar to that made by colonial magistrates, the only difference between those days and these, they ended with "God save the king" whereas now they close with "God save the commonwealth of New Hampshire."

Mrs. Charlotte Meloon has gone to Portland to have her eyes treated for cataracts.

Patrick Sweeney, a well-known Irish resident of this city, passed away this morning at his home on State street after a short illness of rheumatic fever. He was aged sixty-two years.

Deceased was a native of County Cork, Ireland, but had lived in America the greater part of his life. For twenty years he was employed at the Portsmouth Brewing Company and was known as a most faithful worker.

He is survived by his aged father and one brother in Ireland.

WASHING THE HAIR

Doctor Lassar, the famous German professor, says the first step toward stopping the falling of hair and toward hair health generally is to keep the scalp clean by washing. This should be done daily in the beginning, and as the scalp assumes a more normal condition, the head can be washed less frequently. But don't make the mistake of using ordinary soaps and shampoos. Use the one thing in all this world which is above suspicion, and that is Dr. Head Wash, the new scientific preparation. It is made of Refined Soap, Castor Oil, White of Egg, Glycerine and Salicylic Acid. This formula is so generally recognized as proper that you are invited to ask any physician you know what he thinks about it. It removes the dirt, dandruff and disease germs, and under these improved conditions the hair takes on new vigor naturally.

A LINCOLN YARN.

Why Abe Likened Himself to the Boy Without Gingerbread.

A group of Lincoln's cronies were in his law office once swapping experiences, spinning yarns and comparing notes on life as they found it. They drifted to the subject of romance and sentiment in life, and the talk at last centered on the bliss of lovemaking, of "courtin'" girls and feeling that you made them fall in love with you by your superior charms. Finally some one of the party asked Lincoln for his personal views on the subject.

Abe straightened out his lank and ungainly frame, and a quizzical smile stole across his exceedingly homely face.

"Gentlemen," he drawled, "I reckon I ain't fully qualified to discuss that point with my great authority. In fact, gentlemen, it reminds me of the story of the poor little country boy who saw another and more fortunate boy eating a big piece of gingerbread. He begged and pleaded with the other boy for at least one bite of the gingerbread, but all in vain, and at last was found sitting alone on a dry goods box, following the departure of the other boy and the gingerbread, weeping bitterly.

"What's the matter, sonny?" asked the man who found him.

"Theronpon the crying boy told of his melancholy experience in so vainly begging for just one bite of the other boy's gingerbread.

"I reckon I like gingerbread better than any other boy in all the world," he sobbed in conclusion, "and it certainly do seem to me that I get less of it than any other boy in all the world."

"That, gentlemen," said Abe Lincoln,

"is about my position on this question of the joys of courting a girl and feeling that you're so charming she just can't resist you. I love it better'n any of you, I reckon, and I get less of it."

Work for

English
Cruisers

Reports from abroad indicate that England has not accepted the creation of great armored cruisers, such as the Invincibles, without wondering what role they are designed to play in the event of war. Here are great vessels, well armed, excessively fast, casting as much as Dreadnaughts but unable to go into the first battle line because of light armor, and the thinking Englishman naturally asks himself why it would not be advisable to build Dreadnaughts. His question is answered by Herbert Russell in the London Daily Mail, who says, in part:

Mobility, when accompanied by great "smashing" power, is likely to prove a most important determining factor, in the course of a sea struggle. What the cavalry is to the army, the capital cruisers might prove to the fleet—doubling round the flank of an enemy, or bolting off to the scene of a distant engagement and then arriving in time to strike the knockout blow. The speed of the Dreadnaught continues to be good enough for the super-Dreadnaughts; the speed of the Indomitable is not good enough for the Indefatigable, and still less so for her successor. This is what gives rise to the vagueness as to tactical purpose. At the same time, let us not suppose that the Admiralty Board of Construction is troubled with any such vagueness, although they have never seen fit to take the nation into their confidence on this point. The Indomitable design, in their view, embodies a perfectly clear conception of functions which go beyond those of any battleship.

It may be truthfully said that the capital cruiser can cover every duty which falls to the lot of the navy. But then, as economy of force is essential to entrance throughout a campaign, it is manifest that there are many functions upon which it would be but an illustration of the sledghammer-and-butterfly principle to employ these units. In the navy itself, where the same dublety exists as to the tactical mettle of this latest type of warship, one potential warmission is assigned to her by general consent. And this is responsibility for the maintaining the national honor. In negative and oft-repeated apprehension that even while our fleet is giving battle victoriously we might be starved into capitulation.

It is something more than a mere coincidence that almost contemporaneous with the advent of the two gigantic Cunarders, built largely by Admiralty subvention and to Admiralty specification, we had the dramatic surprise of the revelation that the three Indomitable were ready for launching. We may note that the speed of the two Cunarders and the three Indomitable is identical. The gross burden of the former is 30,000 tons apiece. Take it at that, the pinch of national urgency when passenger quarters would be transferred to be utilized as freight space, these vessels would be capable of carrying 25,000 tons dead weight apiece.

Within a fortnight they could be rushed across the Atlantic, loaded choke-block with corn, and return to our shores. This means that every week one or the other of these vast steamers would be pouring 25,000 tons of grain into the national granaries. Escorted by a brace of capital cruisers, the Mauretania or Lusitania could make her passage in comparative immunity. No battle fleet could hold up the little flying procession, because heels are invincible in a runaway match. No cruiser squadron, composed of existent foreign types, would attempt to bar the progress of such a formidable force.

Here, then, we may discover the
